

Resident Physician of the Month
January 2018

Dr. Anas Alrohimi
PGY 3, Neurology
University of Alberta

I was born in Riyadh, the capital of Saudi Arabia and I grew up in Shaqra, a small town close to Riyadh. After completing high school, I moved to Riyadh and left my family to start my journey in pursuit of a career in medicine by joining King Saud University. After graduating from medical school, I was granted a scholarship for residency training in the field I am passionate about, neurology, at the University of Alberta.

I am currently a 3rd year and co-chief resident physician in Neurology. My long term goal is to become a stroke neurologist with further sub-specialization in Endovascular neuroradiology (Intervention). Given my interest in stroke neurology and research, I recently joined the Master of Science (Thesis-based) in Medicine, Translational Medicine program at the University of Alberta as a full-time student. I am also working on research projects focusing on the field of vascular neurology.

Outside of medicine, I spend most of my leisure time horseback riding, solving puzzles and reading. I have enjoyed these three hobbies for a long time. I even used to compete nationally in horseback riding and jumping obstacles and won some awards in it.

I am honoured to receive this award and acknowledgment. I am very fortunate to be surrounded by a group of amazing supportive individuals, including my program director, co-resident physicians and world-renowned mentors. I owe any success in my life to my parents and family. Thank you!

A colleague had this to say about Dr. Anas Alrohimi:

“Dr. Anas Alrohimi is the personification of what it means to be a well-rounded resident physician. He is an exemplary clinician, mentor and colleague. Staff will attest to the fact that, even as a junior resident physician, he functions as a senior on the wards. Despite his advanced clinical acumen, he is easily one of the most amicable individuals in our program due to his easy-going nature and sense of humility. He will often volunteer to take on extra work when unforeseen circumstances arise for colleagues and spend additional time teaching other juniors on the wards.”

Anas is highly active in the Neurology residency program. He consistently volunteers to present at academic half day and takes on multiple roles during CaRMS season. It is a testament to Dr. Alrohimi's leadership capabilities that he has been chosen as the chief resident for the upcoming year. Suffice it to say, Anas is an extraordinarily dedicated individual and an incredible asset for the program. It is with the highest commendation that I recommend him as the PARA Resident Physician of the Month.”

Congratulations Dr. Anas Alrohimi!
